

On Amendments

Thomas R. Cuba

2012 1128

Amending the Constitution should be hard to do.

In Florida, Amendments are approved by popular vote. It is "democracy" in action. Our United States Constitution (art IV, sec 4) guarantees us a Republican form of government. It does so because democratic choices on issues lead to chaos. Ask any ten people if they even understand the amendments and you will see that the process serves to randomize governance.

Remember, Democracy itself is unconstitutional.

Solution - in Florida. We need to have a separate election for amendments. To qualify to vote on amendments, one must attend and pass a class taught in person by the Florida Supreme Court Justices.

Note - I might have changed my mind on the solution by 2022.